About Company

☐ Provided by Customer

Yung Ming was established in 2009 owing to its parent company used to purchase several European horizontal FFS pouch Machinery and with its experience for such machine more than 10 years. To be a user, we face problem in European machines design and high maintenance expense. Thus YM decided to develop more superior, practical and durable horizontal pouch machinery in Taiwan with high quality performance.

Instead of time-consuming and high maintenance expense, YM design fully mechanical cam drive system and more convenient adjustment for operators. Because YM designs and develops machines from operators view. At the same time, most adjusting parts are quick release for easier adjustment. In order to organize machine parts and better after sales-service, we use modular parts and all spare parts of machine are identified with a code. Thus users might understand the required spare part easily and because of using international brand, the parts are easy to gain.

YM has great performance in business due to the great support from customers. Our machine design by mechanical cam drive system for easy adjustment and durable. Control panel is simple to operate and setting. The operator not only can adjust the required dimension, weight, speed, sealing temperature and sealing time on control panel but get current packing condition from it.

Nowadays YM strives hard to develop more machine models with great functions. In order to help machine users no fear about machine quality when receiving orders.
